Making A Logical Decision...

Is It Logical To Buy A Parrot For A Pet?

YES!

- Parrots are becoming the most popular pet in America. Parrot can be wonderful and loving companions. Parrots can give us a lifetime of enjoyment and actually enhance in value...
- IF THEY ARE RAISED PROPERLY &
- IF THEY MATCH YOUR LIFESTYLE

Common Mistakes People Make When Choosing A Pet Parrot Are:

- To allow price to be the determining factor.
- To purchased based on appearance alone, “it’s a beautiful bird, let’s buy it”.
- To purchase based on emotion alone, “feel sorry for it” or “fell in love with it”.
- To make a decision impulsively, “here it is and I want it now”.

Common Mistakes People Make When Choosing A Pet Parrot Are:

- To believe everything the bird dealer says, “sure he will talk and be loving”.
- To purchase a bird “assuming it will be nice and assuming it will fit their lifestyle”.
- To want a bird based on an article in a magazine.
- A combination of any of the above.

General Facts To Start With:

- Cockatoos are loving and affectionate parrots. Some possess a limited vocabulary, perhaps forty words if worked with properly. They can be a wonderful hands on companion pet for anyone, especially first time parrot owners. If you decided that love and affection are more important than talking ability and you want a Cockatoo then we will help you select the type of Cockatoo for your lifestyle.

General Facts To Start With:

- Congo African Greys, Yellow-Nape Amazons and Double Yellow Headed Amazons are your best talkers. If you decide that the ability of your bird to talk is of greater importance to you than its affection then we will help you understand the differences between these and some other talkers.

General Facts To Start With:

- Macaws are majestic parrots. Their talking and handling abilities may not be the same as the Cockatoos, Greys or Amazons, but their size and beauty help make up for that. If you decide there is a macaw in your future we will help you select the right one.

FACT!

- Every Companion Parrot is uniquely different and may or may not align to the general facts.
- You can buy a young bird for sure...
- And a healthy bird if you are lucky.

KNOW THIS!

- YOU CANNOT BUY A NICE BIRD.
- Pet Stores and Breeders sell birds.
- You have to create a nice bird with proper handling and nurturing guidance.
- Creating a nice bird takes knowledge and experience, and then your follow through.
- The Parrot Place ensures you both succeed.
